BILL TO GOVERN MEAT INDUSTRY PASSES SENATE

Measure Goes Through the Upper House on Monday by a Vote of 46 to 33

LENROOT AND LA FOLLETTE VOTE FOR THE MEASURE

See Little Chance for Bill to Become Law Before March Fourth

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The bill proposing federal regulation of meat packers and other livestock marketing agencies was passed on Monday by the senate.

The vote on passage was 46 to 33. Advocates of the bill contend it will protect stock growers and meat consumers from alleged price control by the packers.

Its opponents pronounce the measure an invasion of private enterprise approaching state socialism.

The bill now goes to the house, where it is in for some hard sledding.

Little Chance to Become Law

Predictions are rife that it will not become a law at this time for, unless the house should accept the senate measure without change, which would be unusual, an agreed bill would be evolved so late in the session that a few senators could talk a conference report to death by March 4.

A special rule to expedite house action is to be sought.

Here is the way the senate lined up on the final roll call on the bill:

Partisan division in the senate was lacking, but most democrats supported the bill, while a majority of the republicans opposed it. The party lineup was: 18 republicans and 28 democrats for passage, with 23 republicans and 10 democrats against.

Main Features Kept

All fundamental features of the legislation presented by the agriculture committee as a substitute for the original Kenyon-Kendrick bill were retained by the senate.

The bill would create a federal livestock commission of three members, appointed by the president, to have jurisdiction over livestock marketing.

This commission would have power to issue orders, collect and dessimi-

"JIM'S" HOME SAVED; COMMUNITY QUICK TO BANISH HIS BAD LUCK

Adams Announces Tuesday Morning that Champion Jinx-Victim Gets New Chance

GIFTS POUR IN FROM ALL AROUND THE CITY

Fund Oversubscribed Without Any One's Being Asked

"JIM'S" HOME is safe.

From La Crosse and neighboring communities such a hearty response followed publication of the story of La Crosse's champion hard-luck victim in Sunday's newspaper that W. F. Adams, who undertook to receive gifts to make up the $50 that "Jim" needs to keep up payments on his little house, after checking up with the Tribune and Leader-Press Tuesday morning on contributions received by the paper, announced that the sum was more than raised.

Over the Top

At that hour Mr. Adams had received $59, and the indications were that a good deal more would be sent in before word reached the generous-hearted givers that the emergency had been met.

Gifts ranged from 25 cents to $5.00. Many of them came anonymously, one of the largest being brought by a woman who came into the newspaper office, laid a five dollar bill on the counter with the words "This is for Jim," and then hurried out.

Another anonymous gift of a dollar bill came in an envelope with a card "Good luck to Jim," and nothing else.

"Here's my bit on the story of Jim," wrote T. B. O'Brien of Onalaska.

"We Need His Kind"

"Enclosed find my check," wrote I. A. Richardson, Bangor. "Don't let him lose his home. These are the kind of men we need."

"Poor Jim and his family," wrote Mrs. O. B. Crossett, from Tomah. "We like to reach a helping hand to one who is overtaken by misfortune and who is sober and industrious and honestly does try to do his best."

A farmer who brought in a bank-note for Jim, asked Mr. Adams for the name and address. He wanted to bring in some potatoes and other vegetables for the family as well as the gift of money. Dominic Jehlen, the butcher, also wanted to know the identity of Jim—to send him a regular weekly gift from his shop.

Nobody Waited to be Asked

"I have done nothing in collecting this fund to meet the payment on Jim's home," said Mr. Adams. "The money just poured in from the kindly people of the community who did not wait to be asked. And I think it will mean more to Jim that it came spontaneously that way, just as soon as people knew the circumstances. I want to thank everybody for their generosity."

Following is the list of givers whose contributions had been received up to noon on Tuesday:

Mrs. Austin Crook, C. L. Weis, E. A. Rohr, Theo. L. Duhl, A. Bluske, F. J. Hartman, B. C. Everingham, W. J. Witich, J. K. Verhulst, A. J. Roberge, H. O. Williams, Anonymous, M. E. B., E. Fuchs, W. GRAIN SHOW IS BIGGEST EVER HELD IN STATE

Prof. A. L. Stone of University and Agricultural Department Praises Local Exhibition

EXHIBITS WILL BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC ON WEDNESDAY

Prizes Awarded; Announcements Will be Made Tomorrow

Stores and other places of business will be closed at noon on Thursday, January 27, according to an announcement made this morning by the general carnival committee.

This will permit everyone to participate in or to witness the big prize parade. Pathe's camera-man will take motion pictures for the Pathe News.

"IT is the biggest pure-bred grain show ever given under the auspices of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment association," declared Prof. A. L. Stone of the University of Wisconsin and the state department of agriculture, after viewing the exhibits entered in the show today.

The exhibition will be open to the public Wednesday. The corn exhibit is on the third floor of the Elks building and the grains, sheaf grain and grasses are in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce building.

"This show is so big and fine because it is open to competition from other states and we have some excellent exhibits here from Minnesota, Iowa and other nearby states," said Mr. Stone. "The quality of the exhibits is fully equal to any exhibit held anywhere in the United States. It is the first time the show has ever been held in La Crosse and there are more than twice the exhibits entered than there were last year when the show was held in Madison. This is due to the extension of competition to growers in other states.

"The clover seed exhibit is excellent. Wisconsin, you know, is noted for the fine quality of its clover.

Say it with courtesy—they'll understand
That La Crosse, the finest old town in the land,

Ice skates and skees and a winged tread,
And a laugh for the winds and snow.

Say it in thrills that will dazzle their eyes,
Tell it in tones that will sure put 'em wise
That our boast is "La Crosse and Co."

Little Hope For Immediate Movement Toward Disarmament Declares Jap Foreign Minister

TOKIO.—By The Associated Press.—Restriction of armaments will be considered by the Japanese government, should it be proposed by another nation, but little hope is held out by Viscount Uchida, foreign minister, that there will be any immediate movement toward disarmament. He was interpellated in the lower house of parliament by the opposition, and admitted that the limiting of armaments was being discussed by the powers.

"Some practical men abroad, however," he declared, "do not approve of immediate disarmament, although they agree in principle. The existing German situation is one factor which prevents complete agreement on the subject. Some people believe Japan has no intention to restrict armaments because Viscount Ishii, Japanese ambassador to France, favored the opinion of practical men who object to reduction."

"Japan's naval policy is not one of expansion, but is one that cannot be avoided in the interests of self-protection. Japan, however, is ready to consider curtailment, in order to assure world peace, in case any power should make such a proposal."

Hope for an early beginning of direct negotiations with China relative to the restoration of Shantung was expressed by the foreign minister.

If Japan had withdrawn her troops from Siberia, when the United States did she would not have been open to the charge that her ambitions were militaristic, declared Viscount Kato, leader of the opposition, in his speech in the diet today attacking the government's Siberian policy. As it was, he insisted all indications were the maintenance of Japanese troops in Siberia had no bearing on political conditions there.

When Premier Hara in his reply declared his belief that the maintenance of troops in Siberia was necessary to Japan's national defense, Viscount Kato rejoined with the declaration that the premier's explanation was not satisfactory.

TWO LOCAL MEN PLEAD GUILTY IN LIQUOR CHARGES

Konetchy and Kratzer Change their Pleas in Court Before Judge Landis

JACOB LOSINSKY ALSO CHANGES HIS PLEA AFTER TRIAL STARTS

Many Cases Disposed of in First Two Days of the Week

Two more La Crosse saloonkeepers, Frank Konetchy and Frank J. Kratzer, charged with violating the national prohibition act, changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty in United States court before Judge Landis late Monday afternoon. Sentences were not pronounced, this duty being deferred by the court until the trials of cases pending are concluded. Kratzer is the proprietor of Bohemian hall in South Seventh street and Konetchy conducts a place at Eleventh and Adams streets.

Through their attorney, John C. Gaveney, several farmers living near Arcadia charged with having stills in their possession, changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty, Tuesday morning.

Those entering pleas of guilty are Louis Sabotta, Florence Grossman, Gust Reck, Juel Rusch, Andrew Sabotta and Thomas Bates.

Losinsky Pleads Guilty

Jacob Losinsky, who for years has conducted a saloon opposite the city of Winona, at Marshland, Wis., pleaded guilty to a charge of having a still in his possession after a jury had been called in his case.

Gus. Hohman of Arcadia, charged with having wine, malt syrup and brandy in his possession, was tried Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. A drayload of evidence was taken from Hohman's cellar. He claimed he had purchased all the wines and liquors before the prohibition act became effective, and said he had made a little home brew for a tonic for members of his family.

Max Meyers of Portage was tried on the charge of having home made wine in his residence. Defendant has been in jeopardy twice, having been arrested at Portage, tried and acquitted.

Just a Little Game

Testifying that he was engaged in a little neighborly game of draw poker in the kitchen of his house and that his guests enjoyed moonshine liquor which he had purchased, Frank Marion of Richland Center laid all his cards on the table in the trial of his case before Judge Landis here Monday afternoon. But it didn't save him, for the jury found him guilty on four counts of violating the prohibition law.

Jacob Michel of Madson was tried on an indictment charging that he had a still, a pint of moonshine and thirty gallons of raisin mash in his home at 2222 East Johnson street. The jury was still out when court adjourned at noon Tuesday, after twenty hours of deliberation.

Edward Haines, a farmer living near Arcadia, was arrested under an indictment charging that he had a still in his possession. After going to the trouble of hiring a lawyer and wasting a week loitering about the court waiting for his case to be tried Haines was freed when the first government witness called in his case testified that he had made a still for Haines' son, Edward Haines, Jr, and not the man on trial. Judge Landis ordered a bench warrant issued for Edward Haines Jr.

WITH LANDIS IN TOWN HE DARES TO TELL STORY

The last lingering doubt about the approach of spring was dispelled today, when Bert Isbell telephoned in from the town of Farmington that he had killed a snake on his farm near Burr Oak.

Gosh! Guess it is time to get the flivver off the skids.

ALLIES REJECT PLAN TO TURN AUSTRIAN PROBLEM OVER TO WORLD LEAGUE

PARIS.—(By the Associated Press.)—After rejecting a proposal to turn the Austrian financial problem over to the league of nations, the allied supreme council decided to appoint a commission to make a thorough inquiry into the question of the economic situation in Europe with particular reference to Austria.

The council took this action in view of the opinion of the conferees that, as the Austrian situation involved the entire European economic situation, it was advisable to have this situation thoroughly inquired into through the most competent representatives of the allied countries obtainable.

These representatives, it was decided, will be Sir Robert Horn, president of the British board of trade; Louis Louchar, France; Signor Cianmanini, the Italian economic expert and probably the ministers of commerce of other allied countries, including Belgium.

PARIS.—(By the Associated Press.)—An unsuccessful attempt was made at Tuesday's session of the allied supreme council here to turn the critical and complicated Austrian financial problem over to the league of nations.

The allies' conferees, when they met, took up at once the Austrian situation. They gave a hearing to the allied financial experts who had attended the Brussels financial conferences, but no Austrian experts were called. When it came to a discussion of the question it was found the opinions of the various delegations in the conference were so divergent that a proposal was made to place the matter in the hands of the league of nations. This, however, was rejected.

It was understood the French and British military experts had reached a complete agreement on the report to be made by them on disarmament of Germany. They were asked to prepare such a report after Monday's discussion in which wide divergencies of opinion developed among the allied confebees.

At the afternoon's session the question of Greece, in her relation to the near Eastern settlement, was on the program for consideration.

Conditions in Austria are described as "critical" The possibility of an utter collapse of the Austrian government with the attendant danger of anarchy and bolshevism, has been before heads of allied cabinets for several weeks and the necessity of stabilizing affairs and giving Austria a chance to work out her destiny was appreciated when the morning's sitting began.

Decision had been reached by the xperts that May 1 must be the limit of time given Germany in which to disband her military organizations and surrender to the allies the arms which the Versailles treaty provides should be given up. Mr. Lloyd George, it is asserted, however, declares that Germany has already done so much that there was in the situation no danger to the allies. He is said to have asserted the allies should also consider the danger to Germany from bolshevism, and that May 1 was a particular time when the Russian soviet armies, were most to be feared. He advised, therefore, that it would be better to follow the plan adopted at Spa and hear the Germans before deciding this question.

Mr. Lloyd George and M. Briand apparently are seeking to compose their differing views relative to German reparations before this important topic is discussed by a full session of the council.

The Tariff In A Condition Of Unbalanced Trade

BY A. B. HEPBURN

(Chairman, Advisory Board, Chase National Bank, New York)

I AM not concerned here with the problem of Protective Tariff vs. Revenue Tariff under normal conditions. A life-long republican, I could offer strong arguments for protective tariffs under conditions to which we were accustomed in the days before the war. But the present situation makes the old arguments wholly inapplicable. We are faced by the fact that Europe owes us many billions of dollars, which she can only pay by shipping goods to us. European governments owe our own government approximately ten billion dollars. In addition to that Europe owes private investors in the United States one billion and a half to two billion dollars in bonds. Over and above that, Europe owes private creditors in the United States, in the form of an unfunded or floating debt, a sum approaching, if it does not exceed, four billion dollars, making a total debt of Europe to the United States of not less than fifteen and one-half billion dollars, of which an appallingly large proportion is in unfunded form.

I repeat that the only way in which Europe can ever hope to pay considerable part of this debt is by sending us goods. She cannot send much more gold. The creation of our great merchant marine and the expansion of our American banking activities have lessened America's dependence on Europe for shipping and banking service, and, at the present moment, the actual balance of payments on shipping is against Europe, rather than in her favor. The only way in which she can hope to pay off this debt, or even to pay interest on it, is by sending goods to us, selling them in our markets, and leaving the money with us.

It needs little argument to show that high protective tariffs interfere with the importation of manufactured goods from Europe, greatly increase Europe's difficulties in meeting her obligations to us, and greatly lessen the prospects of our receiving payments from her. It is a policy which is financially suicidal if rigorously carried out. I am, therefore, vigorously opposed to an upward readjustment of our tariffs at the present time. I call attention to the fact that the platform of the republican party promulgated at Chicago last summer took cognizance of this exceptional situation, from making any definite commitment of the party to an early general increase of tariff rates. The platform said, "The uncertain and unsettled conditions of international balances, the abnormal economic and trade situation of the world, and the impossibility of forecasting accurately even the near future preclude the formulation of a definite program to meet conditions a year hence." I do not question that particular schedules may need modification in the light of the developments since the last tariff law was passed. Some schedules, by being revised upward, can be made more productive of revenue without hampering the imports from Europe. Other schedules may be made more

SEA MONSTER DUE TO ARRIVE HERE FROM NORTH SIDE

What is it?

Citizens on the north side report seeing a sea-monster at their end of town on a recent date. From the information received here the King of the sea was headed in a southerly direction and considering the rate at which it was traveling when last seen on the north side, mathematicians said it was due to reach the south La Crosse about Thursday.

No one has yet been able to give an accurate and detailed description of the monster.

It is said that it will turn up some time this week on the south side.

MYSTERY IN SUICIDE OF MAN IN HOTEL

Verse in Pocket of Well Dressed Stranger Would Indicate Despondency Over Love Affair

TAKES LIFE WITH REVOLVER ALONE IN ROOM IN HIS HOTEL

Removes all Identification Marks from His Clothing With Knife

MYSTERY surrounds the death of George Stone, transient, registered at a local hotel since last Friday whose body was found in a room of the hotel about 6 o'clock Monday evening after employes in the building had become suspicious when the door to the room had remained locked for over twenty-four hours. It is the theory of the police and coroner that the suicide was committed during the early evening hours on Sunday. A 38 caliber revolver was found still in his hand with a bullet hole in the right temple.

That the man had intended that his body should not be identified was evidenced by the fact that all means of identification had been erased before the act was committed. The manufacturer's label was torn from the clothes while the stamp of the makers of the hat was almost illegible. The name of the Plymouth Clothing company, of Minneapolis, was finally made out. A statement from the coroner indicates that all of the clothing had been purchased recently and that no laundry marks were found on his shirt or collar. The coroner's examination further revealed that the man had not been a laborer, from the softness of his hands. He was described as being a man twenty-six or twenty-eight years of age.

"W" on Belt Buckle

The only mark of identification found on the body was the initial "W" on the buckle of his belt. A small sum of money together with a wrist watch was the only personal property found on the body. That the young man was despondent and had contemplated the action for a time was the opinion of authorities after finding a verse clipped from a newspaper in the pocket of his clothing. The verse reads as follows:

THE BEST OF ALL

Sleep and turn and Sleep again,
Spite of the morning birds,
I am weary of strife with men,
Weary of fruitless words,

Once I traveled in blossomed paths,
Ere I had learned to weep,
Sleep is better than loveless days,
Death is better than sleep.
—"Shadow Verses" by Ganallel Bradford.

Came Here Friday

Inquiry at the hotel Monday noon revealed the fact that the young man came to the city last Friday over the Northwestern road from the east at 5:48 in the evening. Because he did not carry any baggage, the hotel keeper said that the man paid his bill in advance every day at the time he registered. No particular attention was paid to the man but it was noticed by the employees that he was morose, seemingly eluding conversation with other transients in the lobby of the hotel. One of the barbers in the shop adjoining reported that he had shaved the man and that at the time had attempted a conversation with him and noticed that he seemingly did not care to continue the conversation.

One of the maids in the hotel told of meeting the young man in the upper hallway Sunday noon and stated that he had questioned as to the reason she had not eaten the fruit which he had left in the room for her. The maid replied that she did not know it was intended for her, when the man added that he had left it for her. The hotel keeper stated that Stone had brought fruit to his room for his noon day lunch, on Sunday and had not left his room only at intervals during the day.

Room Locked for Day

The first intimation of the death came late Monday afternoon when the housekeeper reported to the management that the room had been locked for over twenty-four hours and that repeated attempts to enter the room during the day for cleaning had failed. Becoming suspicious the keeper of the hotel, when an attempt to awaken the occupant of the room had failed, pried the door open. A chair had been drawn alongside of the bed and the body was found in a heap on the floor with the revolver in hand. That a handkerchief was used to muffle the report of the gun, is the opinion of police detectives who found upon examination that the face of the man was partially covered with a white handkerchief. It was thought that the act was committed between six and seven

COMBINATION TO FIX PRICES IMPOSSIBLE SAYS LUMBERMAN

National Association Not Able to Control Output Says Oshkosh Man.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—"It would be practically an impossibility for the National Lumber Manufacturers' association or any other organization to control either the output or the prices of lumber if they should attempt to do so," according to O. T. Swan, Oshkosh, Wis., secretary of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers' association, which will hold its annual conference in Milwaukee, January 27, in reply to a query from the convention division, Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

Mr. Swan makes this declaration in reference to a statement widely published to the effect that the department of justice is about to conduct an investigation of nationwide conditions in the lumber market based on a report recently filed by the federal trade commission.

"There are some 40,000 mills in the United States," said Mr. Swan. "They are in active competition. The southern states and north middle states are in competition with the west. Lumber from the south, west and north all meet in active competition in this region.

"It is understood that the data compiled by the federal trade commission was secured about a year ago and it is based upon a period when lumber in common with every other commodity was on a constantly increasing upward grade. Relative supply and demand did it.

"This fact may have given rise to the thought that the price movement was due to artificial control. That it was purely an economical adjustment is amply proved by the fact that the lumber was the first of the great commodities to fall in value along with farm products, to the price levels of several years ago. Supply and demand shifted the balance against the producer. Lumber has declined during the past few months from forty to sixty per cent under the values prevailing last spring. Mill work and interior finish for houses have shown the same decline, so that today no one need hesitate about building a home on account of the lumber and mill work. In some localities some of the other items entering into house construction, including skilled labor have not adjusted themselves to the reduced price level, but the general outlook is that the spring of 1921 will usher in a new era of home building.

"This would be certain, if in each locality skilled labor and the several materials and commodities entering into house construction liquidate their values to the low levels set by farm products, lumber and mill work."

The Screen

AT THE THEATERS TODAY

Rivoli—Dorothy Dalton in "Romantic Adventuress"; Buster Keaton in "Convict 13," a comedy, and Titl's Serenade, a flute and French horn duo, by Joe Kreutz and Fred Rick.

Majestic—Bryant Washburn in "Sins of St. Anthony"; Pollard comedy, "When the Wind Blows;" Fox News and vaudeville—Stutz and Delmar in "The Masher," and Lamey and Pearson, dialogue and songs.

Strand—"The Man Who Dared" and comedy, "Don't Blame the Stork."

Riviera—"Alma, Where Do You Live?" and comedy, "Oh, What a Knight."

Casino—"Price of Redemption"; comedy, "His Home Sweet Home."

"ALMA, WHERE DO YOU LIVE" AT THE RIVIERA

"Alma Where Do You Live" is the type of breezy, fun making comedy which will appeal to all picture lovers. Doubtless many of the audience at the Riviera Theater tonight will be glad of the opportunity of seeing their favorite musical comedy success visualized in a screen offering of artistic quality and beautiful photographic effects. Manager A. J. Cooper has secured "Alma Where Do You Live," which has been sung and whistled by probably every one in this city at one time or another. The plot revolves around the love of George, an artist, and Alma, premiere dancer of a well known Broadway Show.

DOROTHY DALTON AND BUSTER KEATON AT RIVOLI

They gamble with hearts as well as gold at Monte Carlo. The famous devil's playground, however, deals benignantly with Dorothy Dalton in "A Romantic Adventuress," showing at Rivoli theater. Buster Keaton in "Convict 13" is on the same bill. Altogether, it is the brightest, most entertaining screen play Miss Dalton has offered us in many moons. Unlike her recent vehicles, it doesn't tax her emotional talents, but rather harks back to the pretty star's earlier mood—that of "Extravagance" and "Pare-up Sal" Monte Carlo vies with gay New Orleans, a college town and Broadway's white lights in providing the setting. The story unfolds the romance of a dancing girl whose beauty and grace are exploited by a wayward mother in the money markets of New York. The "livest one" of all the slapstick comedians is what you get when you see Buster Keaton, the man who never smiles. He packs his comedies with that instantaneous brand of humor that keeps 'em roaring. He is different—distinctively different. That sad face never loses its dejected look, and Buster's marvelous contortions make the audience wonder where his bones are, while they shake with laughter. In "Convict 13" Buster is funnier than ever.

VODVIL, PICTURES—MAJESTIC

HINDU SCENES IN BERT LYTELL'S PICTURE

A Hindu street scene in "The Price of Redemption," Bert Lytell's new Metro picture at the Casino today is an exact reproduction of a street in the town of Baroda, India. The street, covering in all about three hundred feet, is formed in an angle. The houses and stores in varied colors, are made of cement and stucco, the lowest about twenty feet high, the tallest about seventy. As many of the inhabitants of the town are English, the signs on the stores are painted in both Hindu and English script. During the night scenes an uncannily realistic atmosphere was obtained by the use of Indian torches and house lights and the weird actions of Hindu people after dark, their slinking guit and furtive mysterious glances and head motions that seemed to spell calamity and disaster. Mr. Lytell has a powerful character role and is supported by a notable cast, among whom are Seena Owen, Cleo Madison, Landers Stevens and Edward Cecil.

WILLIAM RUSSELL—STRAND

One of the many features and thrills in "The Man Who Dared," starring William Russell, at the Strand theater tonight, is the felling of a giant tree in the heart of the California redwoods forest, where the exteriors of the production were staged. The vast lumber camps of the Union Lumber company at Fort Bragg, Calif., were used by Director Emmett J. Flynn in taking the scenes. William Russell chopped down one of the biggest trees in the forest. It stood 250 feet in diameter. Clyde De Vinna, the cameraman, photographed the falling tree, but not without considerable peril, as he had his camera set nearer than the lumberjacks considered safe. In Big Jim O'Kane William Russell has one of the strongest roles of his career.

WRESTLES LIONS AT BIJOU

That jungle beast which somehow has managed to hold office these many years as king of his tribe, is losing caste. In fact, no less a person than Gene Pollar, the mighty hero of "The Revenge of Tarzan," has put him down as a fourflusher. "Lions are cowards," said the genial Gene, when asked to discourse upon the hair-breadth escapes he had during the filming of the jungle scenes in the famous story by Edgar Rice Burroughs. "You can keep three or four of them quiet by merely tapping them on their noses with a light twig—that is," he added, "if they are in a cage." This afterthought gave rise to a suspicion that Mr. Pollar was not so much desirous of belittling the lion's prowess as of deprecating his own amazing exploits with the beast—a suspicion which was borne out during the course of the conversation. "The Revenge of Tarzan" will be shown at the Bijou tonight and Wednesday only.

COMMITTEE URGES CUT IN FUND FOR FOREIGN SERVICE

Reduction of Twenty-five Per cent Recommended in Report on Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A reduction of 25 per cent in estimates for the conduct of the nation's foreign service was recommended Monday by an appropriations sub-committee in presenting to the house the diplomatic and consular bill for the next fiscal year.

The state department's estimate of $12,000,000 for this service was about treble the appropriations for 1916 and the committee said that as the war had been ended more than two years, it was inevitable that the fund should be cut materially below the amounts available during the years of "special stress."

The bill's total of $8,545,670, however, is only $826,887 below the amount set aside for this year and $3,440,198 below the estimate.

On the ground of emergency, the committee made provision for an embassy in China instead of a legation.

In view of division of Austro-Hungarian empire into two separate nations, the bill authorized an appropriation for a legation at both Vienna and Budapest. Before the war the United States had an embassy at Vienna.

Compare Manufacturers' Prices of this Year and Last to Show Reduction

CHICAGO, Ill.—Retail prices generally are not coming down, but are already at that stage, according to members of the Retailers' Commercial union, which Monday opened a week's convention here. As evidence they pointed to price lists issued by the association and showing manufacturers' prices as compared with a year ago.

The retailers said that in view of these lists chances of further reductions were slight. Emphasizing the converse, they declared price advances were not in sight.

Prices taken at random from the comparative list of manufacturers' prices included the following:

AUDITOR CONFIRMS ABADIE TESTIMONY IN HOUSE INQUIRY

Found Voucher Said to Have Been Used by Schwab for personal Expense

NEW YORK.—Percy Morse, whose accounting firm audited the books of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company, Monday appeared before the Walsh committee, investigating affairs of the United States Shipping board and corroborated testimony of Colonel E. H. Abadie, former general comptroller, concerning discovery of a voucher for $260,000 alleged to cover personal expenses of Charles M. Schwab for October, 1918.

Mr. Morse said he told Colonel Abadie, under whose direction the audit was carried out, of the discovery of the voucher by one of his accountants and of the existence of other vouchers. One of these was for $18,000 paid to Paul D. Cravath, attorney for the Bethlehem company, and was charged to overhead, he said.

CONFESS ME

WHOSOEVER shall confess Me before men, him will I confess before My Father which is in heaven.—Matthew 10: 32.

From the Rear

SAM GOMPERS' life is just one durn thing after another. For the last three or four years the reds in organized labor movement have been twisting his tail and trying to "get his job" because he was "too conservative and reactionary". Now comes a new element in the federation that is after him for reasons that, by inference, accuse him of being too radical. In resolutions adopted at its organization meeting in Chicago this new outfit, known as the American League of Union Workingmen, talks about the "malign influence" of the Gompers' cabinet of "official oligarchs" and declares for "America first", condemning "untried, immature policies imported from old world factories".

Much depends on the point of view, doesn't it? If it were not for the professed intent of the new organization to exterminate Gompers and his policies in A. F. of L. administration, one might easily read the condemnation of foreign theories as an endorsement of the Gompers' regime in the last few years. For old Sam has been spending most of his time throwing the radicals out on their ears and spurring on the federation to solid and square Americanism. It took some courage, too, for more than once Gompers' bold defiance of the reds has seemed to threaten his position of leadership.

The new organization unless it shows unexpected strength, may have difficulty in ousting Gompers, single-handed. But it could be done, very likely, by an alliance with the reds who have been after the scalp for years. These latter gentry are generally possibilists, accepting any temporary bedfellow—and later cutting his throat to advance their cause. But it may be hoped that the new organization will be sufficiently cautious, as well as suspicious of half-baked foreign nations, not to accept help from such a source in their offensive against Gompers. Otherwise the story of the lady and the liger might be repeated:

A smiling young lady of Niger
Went out for a ride on a tiger.
They returned from the ride
With the lady inside
And the smile on the face of the tiger.

New Pathfinders

WHAT do you suppose those pathfinders, Fremont, Lewis and Clark, would have said if someone, then, had predicted what is stated as an accomplished fact in the following:

"The Pacific-Gulf-Caribbean Line, operating a coastwise service through the Panama canal, and the Warrior River Service, operating on the Mississippi river, have completed arrangements for joint handling of shipments on through bill of lading between Pacific ports of the United States and inland ports on the Mississippi and its tributaries."

Thus does the Panama Record, official publication of the canal, modestly turn to a new leaf in the book of American enterprises labelled Interstate Commerce. It is not, in the strictest sense, blazing a new trail from river ports to the coast, and yet, in a way, this is what the through bill of lading does. It permits a cheaper and freer movement of commerce between east and west, for it removes one of the stumbling blocks long in the way of valley-to-coast water trade.

In the earlier days of the Panama canal commercial organizations of Mississippi Valley cities expressed discontent with the effects of the canal, which they said was benefiting the seaboard areas out of proportion to its usefulness to the middle states industrial and agricultural centers.

Now, however, as the Canal Record points out, "with the growing traffic through New Orleans the canal may be expected to be of more direct benefit to the central portion of the United States."

To reap the full measure of this "direct benefit," though, the central centers must do more with their waterways than they have done. They must foster river traffic. They must spend endless days in ceaseless agitation for real, and not "pork bar'l" improvements of the channels.

They must have boats on the water and harbor facilities for the boats. They must have cargoes for the boats. They must send via Panama everything they can send that way. They must do this even though it means more work and worry for themselves.

Blazing a trail is not easy, but transforming the trail into a highway of commerce is far more difficult. Yet that was done across the Rockies. It can be done via Panama.

The through bill of lading is the first stepping stone.

Deeper channels, better harbor equipment, more boats and barges, constantly increasing volume of river traffic, are other steps in the direction of shifting from the over-burdened transcontinental railroads a large portion of their load.

It is no farther from the through bill of lading to the through freight boat, than it was from the Prairie Schooner to the Transcontinental Limited!

Tariff Problems

AN interview by A. Barton Hepburn, appearing on the first page of this edition, may be read with interest by republicans who, for traditional reasons, expect the incoming republican administration to identify itself by a sweeping protective tariff. Mr. Hepburn, a protectionist in normal times, tells why not. Briefly, Europe owes so many billions, and we have so much of the world's gold, that Europe can pay us only by shipping in goods that would be barred out by a high tariff. Goods are the only legal tender for traffic between us and Europe, and if we refuse to accept it, we shall get little or nothing.

Mr. Hepburn points out that there are exceptions. One we have in mind is pearl buttons. Their manufacture is a big industry along the Mississippi, Japan, a new rival, is putting these factories out of business. We can not compete with coolie labor. The bar of indebtedness does not exist in the case of Japan.

Urgent suggestions are made with especial reference to the lumber industry. It is pointed out that, with millions of homes needed in the United States, homes should be on the free list.

Of course there will be the old difficulty, based upon the fact that "the tariff is a local issue". From every state will come senators and congressmen with appeals for protection of their state products. The old trading of votes may ensue, with the result that the national welfare as a whole is lost to view.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

As regards the adoption of the commission form of government for La Crosse Mayor Ori J. Sorensen has urged prompt action on the part of the board of trade in holding a special meeting to draw up petitions favoring adoption, as the matter is too important to justify waiting until the spring election. The mayor believes the commission form of government would promote efficiency and economy as it would tend to put the business of the city in the hands of able businessmen.

When the baseball directors hold a meeting tomorrow evening an agitation will be started for a down town baseball park. President Henry Rooney suggests that the baseball grounds be laid out in one corner of the park and the park commission may be asked for permission to lay out an athletic field at that place. Much complaint has been heard about the present location of the grounds and the fact that the attendance is falling off is attributed by the management to that cause.

W. J. Ferris of the La Crosse Water Power company has announced that the project to build an electric interurban railroad to connect this city with Winona and eventually St. Paul has been abandoned because of the failure of eastern capitalists to back the scheme as expected.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

A strong effort will be made all along the La Crosse and Black River valleys to keep the La Crosse people interested in the projected road up these valleys. McHugh brothers have spent over $20,000 in securing the right of way and survey of the road and Paul McHugh says some action will be taken. The road will not be an electric line as at first intended, but will be a standard guage road with steam as motive power.

Hamlin Garland, the author, and his wife are spending the winter with the former's parents at West Salem. Mr. Garland is now working on a story for an eastern magazine.

The new school at Sixteenth and Vine will be ready for occupancy February 15.

W. A. Bradbury of this city, attended the meeting of the Northwestern Hemlock association held in the Plankinton hotel in Milwaukee yesterday. The meeting was held to satisfy a popular demand for price adjustments but it was voted to keep the price of hemlock at $9.75 per thousand feet.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Mr. C. H. Miller has completed his new house on Fourteenth street. Although it is now in the suburbs, the time is coming when there will be plenty of neighbors.

Captain D. A. McDonald and Hon. G. M. Woodward left on the Burlington for the north today.

Mr. Robert Dugdale, formerly a compositor on the Republican and Leader, has been appointed assistant postmaster at Platteville, this state.

The remonstrance against bonding the city for $40,000 to build a city hall will be presented to Mayor Dengler tomorrow.

FALSE AND TRUE

By MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

"Why did they call me Linnet? Of all names! The rest of the world is saddest when I sing!" Linnet Ware said plaintively to her newest victim, Selden Moore.

He laughed softly answering: "Praise be for that. In this day of musical prodigality, you're an oasis."

"In a desert of melody! Thanks for them kind words," Linnet flung back, settling herself comfortably in a nest of rainbow cushions. Yet even they could not make her look washed out, so vivid was the yellow of her hair, the violet of her eyes, the healthy scarlet of her very perfect mouth. Her skin had the texture of a camelia petal—she was further shapely, and extra well finished. There was a look of race to accent all this.

What wonder that she had gone rather to the heads of her countrymen—at least that moiety of them lucky enough to know her? This in spite of the fact that she danced without enthusiasm, was a dub at tennis, and refused even to look on at golf. Polo she loved—but sex and convention forbade playing it. So she took to going cross-country in any weather, never flunking the stiffest jumps, nor minding hazardous spills.

The spills were few—she had apparently as much influence over hunters as over men. Anything bittable became pliant to her will after a few miles—to the disgust of Amazonian horsewomen who got results with malice aforethought. She was so confoundedly, so confoundingly feminine, with her side saddle, her soft collar, her picturesquely untidy tam that had always a bright fold tucked amid its folds. It was disgusting to have her almost always in the first flight, and not winning prizes solely through refusing to compete for them. She mounted herself well but not extravagantly. "Any good horse will go—if you get the best in him," she explained more than once. Which moved her much tried mother to add: "If only you'd be as sensible about men as horses, it would take a load off my mind and heart."

Being interpreted, this meant, concretely, a shrinking estate, and the Wendell King millions. All through Linnet's bringing up Mrs. Ware had had the millions in the back of her mind. Retrieving them was poetic justice, since they had been unjustly diverted from Linnet's father through his elderly uncle's marriage with the beautiful widow King.

He had settled them upon her in the first flush of infatuation—when the pair went down with their ship upon a long wedding tour, the wrong was put beyond fighting. Wendell, a quiet, kindly dull witted lad of fifteen, had inherited from his mother in trust for possible children. So it had been out of his power to do more than make handsome gifts to the Wares.

Linnet, an elfin no-colored child had appealed only to his pity until at fifteen she bloomed with that beauty of the devil which works so many evil miracles. Seeing her round and flush and glow, his plan of life changed. When she was twenty she must marry him, and begin a fairy-tale existence. Until then let her play to her heart's content—he knew he could trust her—besides, there was her mother.

Mrs. Ware was far from heartless—indeed, love for her child was the spur to her worldiness. She said nothing to Linnet of the future beyond advising a wise choice if any. She knew Linnet would rebel against a cut-and-dried family arrangement—much better let her continue to think of Wendell as a liberal pseudo-kinsman who regarded her as a child to be teased and spoiled. When she had had her fling playing with the youngsters Linnet might insensibly drift into love with him doting fairy godfather.

Linnet showed a zest in playing with the youngsters equal to her zest cross-country, yet until the era of Selden Moore her mother had never been the least uneasy. For her girl had played the game with the fine reserves of a gentlewoman, making her safety in numbers and surrounding herself with an aura of untouchableness beautiful to see.

But Moore was different. Toward him she glowed as a gem a star—often when he had left her she sat silent, smiling happily, or rousing to hug her mother tight and whisper: "Is there anything like real love?" Moore was only rich enough to be a competent idler. Living was, he said, business enough for a gentleman—wherefore then swamp himself with the risks and the turmoil of active work, when he was so much more valuable as an example of moderation?

Linnet scarcely sensed the question, but her mother pondered it deeply. To her it meant either that Moore had no thought of marriage, or that his wife needs must bring with her an income equal to his own. Linnet could not do that—already living expenses were trenching upon their modest principal—she must either marry money or become a drudge, else a pensioner upon Wendell King.

Impossible to think of either alternative—so impossible Mrs. Ware lost sleep and flesh in considering them. Watching Linnet narrowly, she noted a subtle change in her. She laughed more and smiled less—was by turns overeager and overlistless—also, she had no more joy in playing the game of hearts. A bad sign, thought the anxious mother, especially now that she was well past nineteen.

She had not found Prince Charming, plus even a scant million—it was unlikely that she would find him before Wendell King required a decision. She could not blame him—he had been almost unreasonably patient and trustful. He would not try to force Linnet's inclination, but it would hurt him sorely to find he had waited in vain.

She sat thinking things over upon a stormy afternoon when Moore was the only caller at teatime. Despite a lovely flush of greeting Linnet had gone to the window and stood looking wistfully out into the rainy murk. Suddenly she said: "I wish everybody could be home now, warm and comfy, with dry feet and good dinners ahead. That's what ought to be—"

"Agreed—well make it so—when we come into your fortune," Moore said tenslingly. "We may not have to wait very long—I heard yesterday the insurance folk are worrying a lot over Uncle Wendell's million-dollar policy."

"I don't know what you can mean," Linnet cried, coming toward him white and shaking. "He mustn't die—he is so good—I'd rather die myself—"

"What! When you're his only heir?" Moore bantered.

Mrs. Ware looked at him fixedly. "You are misinformed," she said drily. "Wendell King could not leave Linnet his fortune—it is strictly entailed, failing direct heirs, it goes to distant cousins."

Moore's face was a study. "I—I am sorry—I thought I knew," he said stumblingly. "Now I must be going. Au revoir."

Linnet did not hear him. She was at the phone calling breathlessly a number her mother smiled to hear. She shut her ears against her daughter's voice, but her heart sang at the timbre of it—something new and wonderful rang there. Presently Linnet came to her, becoming like a rose, to say: "Mother, he is perfectly, splendidly well. We are to dine with him and go to the opera. I'm so happy, hug me tight."

"You are going to be happier, darling," the mother murmured softly—in her heart a mute thanksgiving that her daughter's heart had gone through the false to the true.

"LISTEN LESTER"

John Cort will bring to the La Crosse theater Wednesday the sprightly and stirring musical comedy, "Listen, Lester." The locale of the play is laid in Palm Beach, whither a Colonel Dodge has gone, accompanied by his fascinating daughter Mary, to escape from an adventuress that he has been courting in New York and who threatens him with a breach of promise suit, if he does not pay heart balm. At the same hotel is a Mrs. Mumm, awaiting the arrival of Jack, her young admirer, but while she is waiting for him she meets the Colonel and falls in love with him. There is a flip hotel clerk, a decidedly fresh porter named Lester, a package of letters, a female detective and a score of complications and situations that gives the turn of merriment and cleverness to the story. The cast is headed by Fred Heider, who was prominent in the long run New York cast.

"BREAD 'N' JELLY"

Being a Tale of Spuds, Whitey, and a Slice of Bread 'n' Jelly.

"What ya got in the other hand, Spuds?" Whitey looked eagerly at the bread and jelly—thick spread strawberry jam, it was, to be correct.

Spuds' impatience grew with this query. "What's a matter with you, annahow—can't you see no more, huh? Don't ya know bread 'n' jelly when ya see it? Gee whiz—what's a matter?"

"Gi' me some, will ya?" Whitey could see that it was useless to hint, and so he decided to come right out and ask for some of the dainty morsel.

Spuds was shocked. "Give ya some? What do ya think I am annahow? Give ya some? Say—go 'n' git your own bread 'n' jelly, why don't ya?"

"A-w-w, don't git wise now."

"Who's a gittin' wise? I'll git wise if I wunt to, I guess I will."

"A-w-w." Whitey climbed down from the gate. His face was screwed into an expression of contempt. If there was anything he positively disliked it was a person who couldn't understand.

Whitey walked into the yard and stood in front of Spuds. Spuds did not stop chewing on the crust of bread. Whitey stepped back a pace and sized up Spuds. His fists were clenched.

"Say—do you wunt to fight, huh?" Whitey stuck his face into Spuds'.

Spuds stood stock still, the bread and peanut butter half-way to his mouth. This was indeed a surprise. Whitey asking him if he wanted to fight! Why, in all the years they had paled together neither had challenged the other to fistic combat in this manner.

However, an immediate answer to the challenge was necessary, Spuds reasoned, so placing the slices of bread and jelly and peanut butter on the fence railing, and rolling up his sleeves replied: "Sure—sure Mike, I'll fight ya. Wunt to fight?"

They began.

[You've often seen two young men about Whitey's age have a good "scrap." Well, that's about the kind of fight that takes place in tomorrow's chapter. Of course you'll read it.]

DOLLAR IDEAS

Do you live near a factory or shop where a good many men work? If you do, you can make some money. John Tobin and I live near a big tool factory, where there are about two hundred men working. My father works there, too, and he told me that the men were all dissatisfied with the lunches that they got at the restaurant nearby and the high prices that they had to pay for them.

So John and I worked up a scheme. Every night we cut about a hundred slices of bread and placed ham between them. We buy fifty pint bottles of milk, having them left near the factory every morning. We go into the factory at noon and sell the sandwiches and milk for less than the men could buy them for at the restaurant, but for enough to give us a good profit.

If you cut the bread at night, remember to put damp cloths over it so that it will not get hard and dry. —JOHN CORBIN.

GIRLHOOD STORIES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

"Sister Dora"

"Come quick!" cried Dorothy to her sister, "it's raining and we can put our bonnets on and wear them out in the rain so they won't be fit to wear to church." The two little girls had been given bonnets by their mother and they both hated them.

Sunday came and the children started to church hatless. "Go put your hats on, daughters," said their mother. They ran to get them and came back with the wrecks on their heads, saying, "You see what a fright they are, mother; we can't wear them." But the mother was firm and the girls wore the bonnets to church that Sunday and many Sundays following.

Dorothy Pattison became a saint in the eyes of the poor people. She nursed them through all kinds of sicknesses and was always ready to go anywhere to care for the poor and suffering. A statue of her was erected in Walsall, England, and the working people love to point it out to strangers as their "Sister Dora."

MAUD NEPRUD AGAIN NAMED TO PLACE ON STATE COMMISSION

Appointment Sent to Senate on Tuesday by Governor Blaine

EMERY IS NAMED AS DAIRY AND FOOD COMMISSIONER

Succeeds Weigle of Milwaukee Who Held Place Six Years

By FRED L. HOLMES

MADISON, Wis.—The appointment of J. Q. Emery Albion, as state dairy and food commissioner of Wisconsin, and of Miss Maud E. Neprud, Viroqua, as a member of the state board of control, were sent to the senate Tuesday morning by Gov. John J. Blaine. Before these appointments become effective they must be confirmed by the senate. It is probable that both appointments may be taken up in the senate this week.

Mr. Emery is appointed to succeed George J. Weigle, Milwaukee, who has served as dairy and food commissioner for the past six years. The salary of the position is $4,000 and the term of office is two years. Miss Neprud receives a reappointment as the woman member of the board of control. She was appointed by Gov. Philipp to the position two years ago, when the board was reorganized. Her salary is $5,000 annually and the term is six years.

Probably few men in Wisconsin are better known among dairymen than Mr. Emery. Prior to 1915 he served for many years as dairy and food commissioner. Recently Gov. Blaine has received letters from the dairy organizations of the state; Hoard's Dairyman and the Wisconsin Agriculturist, two of the big farm papers of Wisconsin, urging the appointment of Mr. Emery to the position. Mr. Emery was born at Liberty, Ohio, Sept. 15, 1843. He was a Civil war veteran. He graduated from Albion college in 1866. For many years he served as principal of high schools in Wisconsin. For sixteen years he was head of the Ft. Atkinson high school. In 1889 he was chosen as president of the state normal school at River Falls and held the position for four years. He was nominated as state superintendent of schools in 1894 and re-elected. He was then chosen a member of the state dairy and food commission and under his administration many of the important dairy laws of the state were enacted into law. He has been president of the state Dairymen's Association. Since 1915 he has had charge of the farming interests in southern Dane County.

Miss Neprud, who is renamed as a member of the state board of control, received her elementary education in La Crosse high school and La Crosse Normal School. In 1914 she graduated from University of Wisconsin and for one year taught in the Tomahawk high school and for two years in the La Crosse high school. She served one term as county superintendent of schools in Vernon County. On July 10, 1919, she was appointed by Gov. Philipp as a member of the state board of control. She is 60 years old.

No opposition is anticipated to either of the appointments. Both may be taken up for consideration in the Senate some time this week.

CHARGE BY WEIGHT FOR PASSENGERS IN AIR MAIL SERVICE

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The Lawson Airplane company, when it begins its Chicago-New York passenger and mail service some time in May, will charge passengers according to their weight, Alfred W. Lawson, president of the company, announced Monday.

Provision has been made for carrying passengers to the approximate weight of two tons, or 4,000 pounds, Mr. Lawson said, and in explanation of the charge for weight, he said that it would be unreasonable to be expected to carry a man weighing 250 pounds at the same fare of one weighing not more than 125 pounds. While forty men weighing 100 pounds might be carried, only twenty weighing 200 could be included under the poundage arrangement.

The matter of weight must be applied exclusively to aircraft transportation, he said. No standard poundage of a passenger has yet been fixed, Mr. Lawson added.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

W. C. T. U. to Hold Thanks Offering Wednesday; Celebrate 52nd Wedding Anniversary

SPARTA, Wis.—Word has been received in the city of the death of Miss Myrtle Goodfellow, which took place in Chicago. Miss Goodfellow was a former teacher in the Sparta schools, having taught here at the time J. W. Livingstone was principal. Besides her regular classes she had charge of the physical training in the school at that time. For many years she had been a sufferer from arthritis, which caused her death. She contracted the dread disease in Pueblo, where she was engaged as teacher. The remains were taken to Platteville, her childhood home, for interment.

The thirty-second annual thanks offering of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held with Mrs. John L. Jones, 503 Franklin street, on Wednesday. The following program will be given: "Sound the Jubilee," address, One Year of Prohibition, Rev. E. E. Horth; vocal solo, Mrs. Howard Teasdale; address, Citizenship and Law Enforcement, Rev. J. S. Morris; memorial, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. May Jones; soprano and tenor duet, God is Love, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Horth; Memorial, Mrs. Cornelia Foster, Mrs. Emma White; demonstration, "Sound the Jubilee," Mesdames Thompson, Fulton, McTavish, Mary Barney and Miss Roberts; piano solo, Miss Florence Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Merrill celebrated their fifty-second wedding anniversary on Monday, January 17. Mr. Merrill is one of the pioneer business men of Sparta, having opened his jewelry store in 1870 and has been in active business here ever since. The day of the anniversary he spent as usual at his place of business.

"For spring is a lovable lady."

At least that is what the poet sings. So now comes a new sign of spring in La Crosse.

John A. Webber, 716 Liberty street, was fishing in French lake Sunday. He looked up into the sky.

Six plump mallards were flying their way northward.

Spring is coming on wings to greet us.

Let's have swell weather (heap plenty snow and ice) for the carnival. Then let spring come on wings.

Little Elva Gilbertson, 529 North Eighth street, also is scouting for spring.

She saw a bullfrog in the road in front of her home Sunday.

Let spring come with a jump.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Andrews had a picnic at Mindora cut Sunday.

Let spring come in gambolling on the green sward.

Pinching bugs were found today in the basement of central fire station.

Wasps wee flying around in the freight house of the Northwestern depot.

Let spring come in buzzing.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST TELLS SECRET

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statemen regarding gray hair.

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

BY FRANKLIN C. WELLS, M. D.
(Medical Director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.)

This is the pneumonia time of the year—look out for it.

There is much that you can do to prevent its attacking you—and to fight it if it attacks you.

Pneumonia means an "inflammation of the lungs," and nearly all cases are caused by a germ—usually flying about in the air, and known as the "pneumococus."

It doesn't make much difference what name you call it by—it is a bad citizen—very dangerous and should be fought in every possible way. There are two ways of combating this dread disease:

First—by keeping it out of the body. This is the best way.

Do not go near one sick with the disease unless absolutely necessary, and then use great care.

Always wash your hands most thoroughly before eating.

As the germs lodge in the nose—throat and mouth—great care should be used not to allow them to get into the air—and fly about to attack other people.

Never spit on the floor—the dust spreads them, as they are not killed by dryness.

Never sneeze or cough—without using a cloth or handkerchief—remember the other fellow and be a "safe man."

Get this habit of carefulness.

A careful habit is the best bodyguard—and if you practice safety and cleanliness—others will follow you.

Second—The next way of fighting the disease is to put up a strong resistance to the intruder—if once it gets into your body.

Keep yourself constantly in physical fighting trim.

Your safety will depend on this.

Keep the skin clean and healthy—by bathing it morning and night.

Avoid undue fatigue and bodily depression—this predisposes to the trouble.

Try not to expose the body to great extremes of heat or cold—or going suddenly into the cold air—when excessively heated. This weakens the system.

Keep the feet dry and warm.

Try to be very regular in eating.

Avoid alcoholic liquor—this lessens your resistance to pneumonia—paralyzes the white blood corpuscles—the policemen of the blood—and makes you an "easy mark."

If you have a persistent or lingering cough—pain in the chest—a chill and fever—go home at once—to bed—and call the doctor.

Live in the fresh air—morning noon and all night long. Don't be afraid of pure air—it won't hurt you.

Try to keep well—in fighting trim—not only to resist pneumonia—but every form of disease bug that may come along.

Your wages depend upon your production—your production upon your efficiency—and your efficiency upon your health.

REMOVE PERSONAL PROPERTY OFFSET ASKS HANSON BILL

River Falls Man Again Introduces Measure Defeated Two Years Ago

MADISON, Wis.—Assemblyman C. E. Hanson, of River Falls, Tuesday introduced in the assembly a bill to abolish the personal property offset section of the Wisconsin income tax law. The bill was introduced by Mr. Hanson two years ago, but failed of passage.

The measure is designed to eliminate the present provision by which individuals paying taxes on personal property are permitted to deduct the taxes paid when figuring their income tax assessment. In 1917 Mr. Hanson obtained the passage of the amendment prohibiting the scheduling of real estate on leased land as personal property in order to obtain the tax offset. The present bill he says will correct what he considers a companion abuse of the law.

BIG NIGHTS AND DAYS ARE COMING IN CARNIVAL WEEK

Dances Galore, Skating and Toboggan Parties Just a Few Features of Program

WEDNESDAY LA CROSSE DAY AND FRIDAY WISCONSIN DAY

Throw Out Flags and Bunting is Suggestion of Committee

CARNIVAL EVENTS

What's going on, and where. Red buttons only admission.

The program of events of the carnival will be found in another part of this paper, and there will also be four big dances under the jurisdiction of the general committee. These will be held from 9 to 12 in Eagles, Yeomen and Concordia halls on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings and at Union hall, north side, on Thursday and Friday evenings.

Admission to these dances will be by invitation only. YOUR BUTTON IS YOUR INVITATION. No one can purchase admission for cash as these are free events. The same applies to other events. Admission to any of the rinks for skating will be by red button. Persons using the toboggan will be expected to display their red buttons. Persons in the parade are not required to wear red buttons, BUT it is probable that the judges will have representatives looking over the clubs in formation and all other things being equal, the organization which appeared to be 100 per cent red buttoned would likely get the preference. In view of the fact that a red button is required for other events, they ought to be worn in the parades also.

The dances will be under the supervision of a special committee in cooperation with the managements of the various halls and will give those who enjoy this recreation an opportunity to enjoy themselves thus; it will also provide an additional amusement, in case the mildness of the weather makes the actual winter sports more or less impracticable. It will also furnish relief from severe cold if that should come.

Judging Marching Clubs

Judges of the marching clubs and floats will be chosen from among the officials of the Wisconsin Experiment association, which is putting on the corn show. These gentlemen are not residents of La Crosse and can make their decision with great acceptability to the contestants.

La Crosse Day

Tomorrow (Wednesday) will be La Crosse Day. Thursday will be La Crosse County Day and County School Day and by the wish of the Experiment association, Friday will be Wisconsin Day. Saturday will be "Sister States Day," in honor of the show being open to Minnesota and Iowa for the first time in its history. Assistant Secretary Holden of the association, states that the show will display the largest number of exhibits ever shown in this state.

Mr. E. G. Von Wald is the chairman of the general carnival committee and Mr. A. F. Mills is vice chairman. Carl A. Semsch is chairman of the decoration department and in charge of fireworks and the vice chairman is Wm. F. Adams, who has especial charge of the Royal Chariot. The special committee on coronation and fire king pageants is Frank H. Burgess, chairman, Myron Locke and R. M. Keeler.

Flags and Bunting

Throw out your flags and bunting. This is a patriotic community event and we should show visitors that we are just as loyal to our town as we are to state or nation. They all belong to each other. Let the line of march be a blaze of color just as the parade will be.

Motion Pictures

Pathe's camera man will be here with his outfit to snap the parades, the coronation, the hockey and skating rinks, the curlers, the toboggan and in fact everything worth taking. In a week or less these pictures of La Crosse will be shown all over the United States and Canada and will be of incalculable advertising value to the city and its people. The prize parade will be Thursday afternoon and the coronation parade on Thursday evening. Saturday will be the battle between the Fire King and the Ice King, concluding the carnival with a spectacle which will be a great surprise to the thousands who will be at the levee to witness it.

Marching clubs will receive instruction from the department of parades. Each captain will await general orders and there will be no confusion. The people of the city have decreed that this celebration shall be a success irrespective of the weather and the word of the people is law. La Crosse is showing the world that it can do big things in a big way. All together, let's go!

HUNGER FOSTERS MUTINY AMONG SOVIET TROOPS

LONDON.—Soviet Russian troops at Opotshka, near the Lettish frontier, have mutinied and killed several commissaries, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Copenhagen, quoting advices from Riga. The uprising is said to have been quelled by force, but similar disturbances are declared to have been reported from other districts. They are said to have been due, to the fact that the soldiers are hungry and ill-clad.

Enforced requisitions upon villages in that district, it is asserted, have caused rioting among civilians.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL WILL SERVE MEALS

Commencing Wednesday noon, the La Crosse County Community cuncil will serve luncheons and suppers the balance of carnival week in the store in the new Rivoli theater building just north of the theater lobby. Home cooking will be served.

TEXAN ARRESTED ON BLUE SKY LAW CHARGE

MADISON, Wis.—Frank Seliner, claiming to be president of the Vanderbilt Petroleum company of Houston, Texas, was arrested here Monday for alleged violation of the blue sky law. Complaint had been made by the district attorney of Green county that Seliner was selling stocks in Wisconsin without a permit as required. He is reported to have sold stock amounting to $22,000 in Wisconsin. Seliner claimed to be president of the company, which it was stated, had not yet struck oil.

Prediction Long Delayed

The steeplejack was repairing a shaft high above the city street. It was an errand-boy who saw him first and he brought some of his friends.

Presently a down-at-heel person joined the group, and in a few minutes a small crowd of earnest onlookers had collected.

They waited half an hour. They waited an hour.

The steeplejack worked on unconcernedly. Then the first-comer took the sense of the meeting, so to speak, as he turned to go.

"He ain't going to fall," he said.—Chicago Examiner.

GOVERNOR BLAINE AIMS WALLOP AT EMERGENCY BOARD

Will Demand Drastic Finance Action in Forthcoming Message

WILL SIT DOWN HARD ON EXCEEDING FUNDS

Philipp Method of Extending Appropriations Under Fire

MADISON, Wis. —(Special) —, A financial message to both houses of the legislature, striking viciously at the emergency board and including drastic recommendations for the financing of the state government, is being prepared by Gov. John J. Blaine who will deliver it personally within a week.

It is understood Governor Blaine will not mince matters, especially in his attack on the activity of the emergency board. This board since its institution, has spent $1,100,000 in allowances to departments over what they were granted in appropriations.

The board has come in for considerable criticism since the new administration took office. The subject was precipitated into discussion by State Treasurer Henry Johnson, who announced a week ago that he had refused to sign an order on the state treasury, extending financial assistance to several minor departments.

Members of the emergency board are: Governor Blaine, Secretary of State Elmer S. Hall and State Treasurer Henry Johnson. Under the provisions of the emergency board law, the three men are empowered to grant funds to departments in need of them.

Law Criticized

The emergency board law has been criticised as conflicting with the statute which declares it malfeasance of office for a department head to spend more than he is allowed by appropriation.

With Governor Blaine's coming message, in which it has been reliably stated that he will recommend the board's abolition and attack its activities, the subject takes on a political significance. The emergency board is a creation of former Governor Philipp. Two days after Governor Blaine's installation, he warned departments that the state would not pay for trips to conventions and the like. This "junketing," as it was termed, was charged by the governor as figuring prominently in the grants allowed by the emergency board.

The executive office announced that it would call for a list of all departmental expenditures for the past year for review. Departments that, in the opinion of the governor, spent too much of the state's money, may be called on the carpet. It was even indicated they might be asked to refund certain sums.

Economy Program

The administration will lay down a rigid "economy" program. A plan is rumored whereby the state board of control, consisting of three members at $5,000 a year, would be abolished and a commission of one member substituted. The head of the new department would be paid about $8,000.

Another source of information has it that the present three-man tax commission would be abolished and in its place a one-man commission instituted. Instead of paying three men $5,000 a year, an expert would be paid $8,000 to run the state tax department.

It is the plan of the administration to go over the entire state government and, wherever possible, propose this system of consolidation and concentration.

At the first meeting of the finance committee Friday, at which several smaller departments were questioned concerning their budget requests, it was indicated the question of finances will furnish considerable fireworks during the session.

The committee bluntly asked of departmental heads whether or not they had exceeded the appropriation given them by the 1919 legislature, and said all department heads would be questioned.

In the light of the message expected from Governor Blaine and the attitude of the finance committee, important developments are being looked for when the whole question of finances is unfolded.

By FRED L. HOLMES

MADISON, Wis.—There are signs of more activity in the legislature this week. Many of the members who were absent last week were present at the opening of the sessions Tuesday and many bills were offered in both house.

Senator H. E. Rothe, Fennimore, chairman of the state affairs committee of the upper house, has bulletined every bill that has been offered and sent to his committee. The only way to hasten the session is to put all of the bills up for hearing at once, declared Mr. Roethe. All measures should be passed upon promptly by the committee.

Gov. John J. Blaine is gathering data for the financial message, which he promised the legislature ten days ago. He is expected to make a full analysis of the financial condition of the state so that the members can have this data before them when acting on the appropriation bills.

The finance committee is holding daily sessions. More than a dozen of the smaller departments have appeared and submitted their budget. Financial bills will not be reported to the house, however, until after the governor's message.

As soon as Gov. Blaine has completed his financial message he plans one on the subject of education. This will deal with the condition of all educational institutions in the state from the common schools up. Senator Kleist has offered the first rural school bill of the session. It is to increase the minimum salary of rural school teachers from $75 to $100 a month.

GRAIN SHOW IS BIGGEST EVER HELD IN STATE

There are fine exhibits of Golden Glow No. 12 corn and Silver King Wisconsin No. 7. The 50-ear sample makes it difficult to pick out a prize-winning sample. Fifty ears is nearly a bushel. That will give you a good idea of what a farmer's crop is like. It was easier when it was necessary to enter only ten ears. It takes hard, intensive work on the part of a farmer to raise a crop of corn that will produce 50 ears that will carry off a prize. The sheaf grain exhibit is one of the outstanding features of this show and there also is a fine line of forage crops."

E. D. Holden, assistant secretary of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment association and son of Dr. P. G. Holden of Iowa, the "corn wizard," is in charge of the exhibition. Judging of the exhibit will be computed late today and announcement of the prizes will be made Wednesday. At the corn show in the Elks building, the entire dance floor is taken up with the corn exhibits. At one end of the room the John Salzer company has built a cottage of varied colored ears of corn, making an attractive feature of the show. The same company has laid out a miniature Cliffwood farm in the exhibit room in the Chamber of Commerce building.

The twentieth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment association will be held Friday, beginning with an address by the president, Frank Bell of Columbus, at 8:30 a. m. and closing at 11 p. m. after an inspection of the prize winning exhibits. The alfalfa and sorghum orders also will hold their annual meetings at the same time.

productive of revenue by being lowered in such a way as to permit the freer entry of certain goods, with the consequent increase in the volume of goods on which the tariff is collected. A strong case can be made on the basis of military considerations for special treatment of dye stuffs, particularly if world conditions are to remain so disturbed that the possibility of another war is seriously to be entertained. But a general revision upward of the tariff would be an inexcusable blunder in the present situation.

The proposed high tariffs on wheat and other farm products of which we are large exporters must be reckoned as absurd from another point of view. Tariffs on competitively produced articles of export do not, in general, affect prices. We might impose a tariff of one dollar a pound on cotton for the purpose of showing the folly of a tariff of this kind. Such a tariff would probably have no effect at all upon the general price of cotton, though it would, of course, have disastrous effects upon industries in the United States employing certain kinds of cotton which we do not produce at home. It is not well to trifle with the farmers in this manner, and believers in the long-run policy of protective tariffs, who look forward to re-establishing the protective system after the present abnormalties in international trade relations have been straightened out, will do well not to irritate the farmers at the present time by giving them a Dead Sea apple which turns to ashes on the lips.

ONE-NIGHT STAND IS NEW EXPERIENCE FOR "LISTEN LESTER"

High Grade Company With Original Cast is Playing Only the Big Theaters

THAT La Crosse on Wednesday evening is due for the biggest treat in the line of a musical comedy that it has seen this season is the statement vouched for by F. L. Koppelberger, manager of the La Crosse theater, after investigation of the "Listen Lester" company that is coming here.

Listen, Lester" is a show of the first importance—it ran more than a year in New York, over six months in Chicago. La Crosse gets it during its only period of one-night stands since the show was put on the boards. It is doing two weeks of single performances in small cities in the northwest to break its jump back east after a successful season on the Pacific Coast.

From La Crosse the show goes to Milwaukee for a run, and then back to Chicago for a return engagement.

The company in "Listen, Lester" is the original cast practically intact: with Johnny Heider, the Four Entertainers, and other notable lights of the musical comedy stage.

"I'm hoping for a big house," said Mr. Koppelberger, "Because if the city shows appreciation of this company it will be easier for me to book Number One companies hereafter. A reputation as a good show town makes it much easier to get the real attractions that take the road."

o'clock Sunday evening, a time when most of the rooms are not occupied. The report of the gun was not heard by anyone in the hotel.

Body Held Here

Authorities are of the opinion that the stranger was registered under an assumed name at the hotel in that a blotter was found in the room on which traces of a letter, presumably written by the man shortly before he committed suicide, were discovered. Reading the reflection from the blotter in a mirror, the name "Ted" was found to be attached as the signature. The following disconnected sentences were made out on the blotter: "If things turn out—will be alright." Below the man's signature the word "congratulation" could be read.

The body is being held by Tetley, Sletten and Dahl, and will be held for identification. The police department is communicating with authorities in St. Paul in an effort to trace the identity of the man.

The death of Walter Stone here marks the second suicide in the city in the last two days.

BUSINESS SECTION OF GEORGIA TOWN WIPED OUT BY FIRE

Resulting Damage Estimated at Four Million Dollars

ATHENS, Ga.—A large part of Athens' downtown business district is a mass of smouldering ruins and it was estimated the fire which early Tuesday swept clean three city blocks and damaged adjoining buildings, had destroyed property valued at least at $4,000,000. No loss of life was reported.

The fire, of undeterminable origin, broke out shortly before midnight and it was five hours later before firemen from this and nearby cities succeeded in getting it under control. At its height the fire appeared as if it would wipe out the entire downtown section and it was then that calls for outside assistance were sent.

BILL TO GOVERN MEAT INDUSTRY PASSES SENATE

nate information, have general supervision over packers, stockyards, commission men and similar agencies. The bill also prescribes rules for conduct of the packing business, and includes stipulations against monopoly, unfair trade practices and engaging in unrelated industries.

Voluntary licensing of packers also is provided; an attempt by Senator Pomerene, Ohio, to eliminate this feature having been defeated on Monday, 43 to 34.

Horses, Mules, Included

Only two important amendments were adopted by the senate before passing the bill. One by Senator Wadsworth, New York, would include horses, mules and goats within the operations of the bill, although horse and mule markets would be excluded from the proposed federal supervision.

Another amendment, by Senator Pittman of Nevada would exempt all persons whose chief business is livestock growing or producion of agricultural products from the bill's provisions.

Other amendments adopted included one by Senator Borah, providing that all proceedings of the livestock commission should be open to the public, and an amendment declaring that upon enactment of the bill all supervision of the federal trade commission over the livestock industry should be terminated and transferred to the livestock commission.

Hitchcock Plan Beaten

Friends of the bill succeeded in withstanding virtually all other revisions proposed. An amendment by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, proposing that packers give a week's notice of prices for livestock, was lost, 70 to 8. The author said it was designed to stabilize the market.

FOWLER ASKS APPOINTMENT OF A BRIDGE COMMITTEE

Resolution Provides for Conference With Iowa and Minnesota

MADISON, Wis.—The legislature adjourned following perfunctory business Tuesday which took up 20 minutes after the session was opened at 10:30. There were thirteen senators present, and the roll-call was dispensed with the suggestion of Senator Huber.

A few bills were introduced in both houses before adjournment was taken, the senate session being livened by an appeal of Senator Skogmo to defeat resolutions which were continually memorallzing congress to act favorably on measures which any member may feel should pass.

His talk was occasioned by a joint resolution calling for a memorial asking the congress to further the project to open the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

Weekly payment of wages and salaries to employes of corporations in Wisconsin would be compulsory under provisions of a bill introduced in the senate this morning by Senator Joseph J. Hirsch of Milwaukee. All wages would have to be paid up to ten days of the date they were earned.

Henry Kleist of Milwaukee introduced a bill in the senate establishing the minimum wage of teachers at $100 for at least eight months, an increase of $25 over the present minimum.

Otter would be subject to trappers and hunters without limit during February and March, under provisions of a bill introduced by Senator Bernard N. Moran of Rhinelander.

A bill was brought into the assembly by Assemblyman Higgins of Milwaukee calling for erection of a state office building in Milwaukee. It was referred to committee.

A joint resolution by F. H. Fowler of La Crosse was introduced in the assembly, providing for a committee to confer with Iowa and Minnesota committees on the establishment of bridges and ferries across the Mississippi river.

DIXON REVIEWS HISTORY OF DRY MOVE IN NATION

Denounces Those Who Violate Law and Social Practices Which Result

At the First Methodist church Sunday morning the first anniversary of the going into effect of the prohibitory amendment to the constitution was observed by an address from the Scripture Habbakuk 1:5. "Behold among the nations, for I am working a work in your days which ye will not believe, though it be told you." Rev. E. C. Dixon spoke in part as follows:

"Perspective is even more to the historian than to the artist. I once thought I saw a bit of grass stem on the window pane but soon observed that it was an immense sawlog floating in the river quarter of a mile away.

"Today we are seeing what many suppose to be but a trifling thing, but which is in reality an epoch making event in the history of the world. People are saying 'As much drunk as ever.' 'Better have well regulated saloons' (such as we had in La Crosse, I suppose). Wait a minute, don't get panic struck.

"The prohibition amendment dealt not with the traffic in La Crosse or even the United States, alone, but with a problem as old as the race and as widespread as the dispersion of mankind over the earth.

"Reformers throwing all blame on license laws are mistaken. License was only one of many supports of the traffic as the facts as to use of liquor in all ages plainly shows.

After the Revolution

"The worst period of drunkenness in America was right after the revolution, when the use of 'good, pure whiskey' was universal.

"But the traffic and use of alcoholics has left its mark on all history. The curse with which alcohol is made and the natural appeal of its taste and smell account for its use from ancient antiquity.

"Even yet people argue that as alcohol is the result of natural processes it is in reality a good gift of God. As well say aconite, belladonna, poison sumac, etc., being natural growths, are good gifts to be eaten by the man who eats that diet calls out once.

"Noah's drunkenness is the classic case and because of this danger the Bible is filled with warnings against use of strong drink and warns that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of heaven.

"But in ancient times no liquor traffic as now understood was carried on. Grape juice was simply allowed to ferment as we all have seen the cider ferment and develop alcohol. Hence the warning, at first it cheers and blesses, at last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. Even in the days of the prophets among the few things against which they blazed was drunkenness.

"From that ancient time to the beginning of the nineteenth century alcoholics were a standing curse to all the world.

Sold in Groceries

"About 1800 every grocery sold whiskey or gave it away. The open barrel with the dipper at its side was everywhere. Drunkenness was appalling. Whiskey was part of every laborer's wages and no festivity, social or religious, was complete without it.

"Then it was the reform began. Dr. Weems, rector of George Washington's church, and Dr. Benjamin Rush, singer of the declaration of independence, foremost surgeon of his day, were first agitators.

"They formed societies pledging against whiskey and urging moderation in use of beer and wine. Thomas Jefferson urged the same idea but drunkenness was in no way lessened.

"After forty years of that trial total abstinence societies were formed in 1840. Tens of thousands of men joined and in fifteen years the idea captured America. Maine went prohibition in 1851. Fifteen other States went the same way before 1855. It is no idle guess to say that had there been no war Lincoln would have signed a prohibition bill as soon as he signed the emancipation proclamation.

"But the war demanded money and lots of it. The nation was concerned to win the war. The proposition was to put a tax of a dollar a gallon on whiskey. Lincoln said I would cut off my right hand rather than sign a bill to that effect. But as money was harder to get and the days were dark Lincoln finally did sign the excise act under the strict agreement that the tax should be repealed as soon as the war was over.

Survives Seventy Years

"That that excise act continued the traffic for seventy years. Many people were persuaded that we could not live without that whiskey money. The chairman of the judiciary committee of the house said only fifteen years ago that the prohibition proposal 'aimed a knife at the very throat of the government.'

"There is no doubt that the liquor traffic bought its immunity with the tax and license money and that by means of that money the consciences of the people were lulled to sleep.

"Then came the new agitation in 1870. Women organized societies and prayed in streets and saloons that God might put an end to the awful business. There are great names we must never forget. Frances Willard, Mother Stewart, J. G. Wooley, J. P. St. John, General Fiske and others. After more than forty years of high pressure agitation the amendment was passed by the largest majorities in congress and states' legislatures that any great act was ever passed and yet some people have the nerve to say that it was done suddenly without a proper understanding by the people.

Prohibition is Here

"Now we have had prohibition and we can understand the results only in the perspective of ten thousand years of alcoholic habit among people of every race in all the world.

"In the light of the facts the revolution caused by the amendment and the success of its operation constitute a miracle of history. Babson tells us that three billion dollars have been turned into new channels of business. Here and there the sons of Belial are making moonshine, carrying whiskey in their boot legs, running about in autos, and all told, it compares to the waters of the seven seas. If whiskey were plentiful and to be had everywhere it would not and could not be sold for $20 a quart and men would not pay $5 for an empty bottle having pasted on it a prescription issued by some creature calling himself a doctor which makes it possible for still another creature to fill with whiskey and still comply with the letter of the law.

"What shall we do then? Declare that we are spectators of the greatest movement for the betterment of mankind that our century has seen or is likely to see. Deny the falsehood that because here and there liquor is sold and because 110 desperadoes can be combed out of all western Wisconsin who have been caught violating the Federal act that liquor is sold as freely as ever.

"Denounce everywhere the disgraceful social practices still common in places in the use of liquors. Make it plain that to you the man or boy who brings liquor to parties as at the several New Year's eve balls is not a joker but a criminal."

A man who had an extraordinary run of luck at Monte Carlo last season attributed his good fortune to a five-franc Louis Philippe coin which he carried in his pocket. This coin had been found on the person of a gambler who had shot himself after having lost heavily at the tables.

ANNOUNCE HEARING ON APPROPRIATIONS FOR HEALTH WORK

Discuss Funds for Child Welfare and Public Health Nursing

MADISON, Wis.—The joint finance committee of the legislature is planning to conduct a hearing next Friday, at 2 p. m., on the appropriation bill for the bureau of child welfare and public health nursing, and on the budget for the state board of health. Many women of the state who were instrumental in obtaining the enactment of child welfare legislation in 1919, and are behind efforts for greater accomplishments in this field, are expected to attend this hearing. The bill as it relates to the child welfare needs calls for an enlarged budget to permit a considerable expansion of the work to meet a growing demand.

YOU'LL GET RID OF BLACKHEADS SURE

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores, and do not get the blackheads out after they become hard. The calonite powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

W. B. U. BASKETBALL TEAM LINES UP FOR TILT WITH "Y" BOYS

Teams Evenly Matched and Good Game is Expected; Prelims Game at 8 O'clock

The W. B. U basketball team is ready for Sr. Business Boys at Y. M. C. A. for Wednesday night. Both teams are evenly matched and neither claims the other to be superior.

The lineup for the Business Boys will probably be Frederickson and Voss, forwards; Harget, center; Feinberg, Fischer and Stein, guards, with Affeldt as substitute. For the W. B. U. team Bonsack, who played on the Bangor High school team and Evans of Sparta fame, will be the forwards, Van Gordon, of Taylor High school, will play center, and the other Van Gordon, also of Taylor, and Parrott of Endeavor, Wis., High school, will hold down the guard positions.

The preliminary game will be between the Sr. Business Boys seconds against the Mercurys. For the Business Boys seconds the lineup will probably be: Pengra, Poss and Kosbab, forwards; Affeldt and Johnson, centers; Goldstein, Ridgeway and Feinberg, guards. For the Mercurys the lineup will probably be Raatz and Temple, guards; L. Hinds, center; Ravndaly and Sletten, forwards. Both of these teams are evenly matched.

The preliminary starts at 8 p. m. and the main game immediately afterwards.

CONGREGATIONALS DEFEAT CALEDONIA STREET METHODISTS

The Congregational Seniors defeated the Caledonia Street M. E. church senior basketball team by the largest score run up in any of the church league games to date. The final score was 67 to 10.

The fact that it was the initial appearance of the Caledonia street team together is perhaps the reason for their overwhelming defeat. The Congregationalists' team was composed of experienced players and displayed an accurate eye at the shooting game. Although they displayed better work than the north siders, the Congregationalists played more or less of an individual game.

The lineups were as follows:

Caledonia Street—Gunderson, rf; Wheaton, lf; Smith, c; Mattox, rg; Feinberg, lg.

Congregational Seniors—Esch, lf; Holley, rg; Schultz, c; Pamperin, lf; Reay, rf.

Referee—Westphal.

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich.—The Eveleth, Minn., Hockey team, last night broke the Canadian Soo's string of victories in the American amateur hockey association winning 3-2.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.— Expressing themselves in the pink of condition, Willie Jackson and Lew Tendler last night finished training for their ten round bout here Wednesday night.

The allies had three airplanes to every one for Germany at the time of the armistice.

BOWLING

The Collegians won two out of three games from the La Crosse Club 60s in the first games after the Tristate tournament. The Collegians totaled 1,032 in the first game. Ott, member of the club team, did the feature rolling of the evening, turning in 222, 194 and 227.

The Krauses lost two out of three to the Regals, who were forced to roll low score because of the absence of one of its members. Panke rolled 193, 182 and 158 for the Krauses, while Erickson rolled 179, 200 and 162.

MINNEAPOLIS.—Illinois defeated Minnesota 23 to 22 in basketball.

MAROONS MUST WIN FROM OHIO TUESDAY TO KEEP IN RACE

Ohio State Has Not Shown Great Form to Date; Defeat Wolverines

CHICAGO, Ill.—Whether the University of Chicago basketball team will remain in the race for the Big Ten conference basketball title, which it won last year, will depend on the showing of the Maroons tonight when they tackle Ohio State at Columbus. A defeat, on top of the loss at Illinois in an overtime game a week ago, would practically eliminate Stagg's team.

The Ohio State quintet has not shown great form to date, but the late appearance of five members of the squad who did not return from the Ohio-California football game on the coast until January 5, handicapped the efforts of Coach Trautman in the early games. Ohio made a fine showing against Michigan, holding the Wolverines to one basket at Ann Arbor, but losing on the home floor to the strong Indiana and Purdue teams by small margins.

Assistant Coach Walker took eleven athletes to Columbus last night—Capt. Crisler, Vollmer, McGuire, Halladay, Birkhoff, Neff, Segal, Stahr, Hitchcock, Runyon and Ratcliff.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Local Golfers Engage in Battle on Links While Another Hunts Missing Balls.

Golf bugs who went forth for the winter haven't anything on three La Crosse followers of the ball and club.

Sunday afternoon the Country club grounds was the scene of an active game of golf despite the condition of the sod. Three local players, A. A. Dusty, John Langdon and Art Bakum yielded to the temptation of the weather, each measuring up to true form throughout the game. That's not all, the joke's on Ben Keeler. Keeler was found tramping over the ground looking in niches and out of the way places for balls he had lost last season. Let's hope he found 'em.

COLORED BASEBALL TEAM INVITED TO JOIN NEW CIRCUIT

CHICAGO, Ill.—The new Continental Baseball league contemplates invading Chicago, it was learned today, when a letter was received from Secretary George M. Riley, inviting the American Giants, a colored professional team, to join the new circuit. The letter stated that two strong colored teams had joined the Boston Tigers and the Knoxville Giants, and two more colored teams were sought.

OKLAHOMA CITY.—A bill making it a misdemeanor for any baseball player to throw a game or to cheat, was introduced in the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature.

MADISON.—Wisconsin defeated Michigan in basketball 25 to 17.

BOTH FIGHTERS IN SPLENDID SHAPE FOR TEN ROUNDER

Tendler and Jackson Fit for Their Ten Round Battle Wednesday Night

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Expressing themselves as being in splendid condition, Lew Tendler and Willie Jackson completed the bulk of their training at Morgenroth's on Monday, and are on edge for their ten round bout before Frank Mulkern's club at the Auditorium Wednesday night. Neither will have any alibi or excuses to offer, should a defeat be returned his way. They have worked diligently and earnestly for the big match the outcome of which is being awaited with interest everywhere in the United States.

Jackson went through thirteen rounds of work on Monday. He boxed eight rounds, two each with Battling Check, Eddie James, Joe Birch and Walter Grayjack. Tendler's training program on the washday included five rounds of boxing, two with Bob Miller and three with Young Barko. Lew showed plenty of speed during the five sessions of sparring and gave the capacity crowd of spectators an opportunity to get a good line as to how fast he can step.

Lew Has Close Call

During the second round of his workout with Barko, Tendler turned his left ankle and it looked for a short time that the big bout was due for a knockout. Promoter Mulkern wasn't on hand at the time, but we can just about imagine how he would have felt. Phil Glassman, Tendler's manager, sweated off about four pounds during the excitement and everyone in the gym became excitd. Lew walked around the ring for a time and finally told the timekeeper that the ankle was feeling o. k. and he resumed boxing.

The ankle pained him slightly following the completion of his work, but he stated that there was no danger and everything would be all right. It sure looked bad for a minute, Tendler, at least, had everyone guessing. A postponement of the show at this time would probably cause Promoter Mulkern's heart to stop beating. These last days of training are sure trying.

OKLAHOMA CITY — "Wildcat" Ferns got the newspapers decision over Harvey Thorpe in six rounds. They are welterweights.

NORMAL SCHOOL PLAYERS EMERGE IN GOOD SHAPE FROM TWO ROAD BATTLES

The Normal School basketball team will not play Whitewater tonight as was erroneously announced in Sunday's issue, but instead will meet the southern aggregation on Friday night of this week in the Normal gymnasium.

This game will be one of the big features of carnival week and will attract wide attention not only from the citizens of La Crosse but also from the visitors from other parts of the state. Since they meet so soon after their first game, the coming contest should be one of the best of the year. Both teams are fairly evenly matched and their respective coaches will have them well drilled in the defensive tactics necessary.

The Normalites came out of the games last week in fine shape, no injuries being reported. They are already hard at work preparing for the second meeting with the downstaters. In Monday night's practice "Tubby" donned a uniform and participated in the scrimmage against the regulars.

NINE O'CLOCK TOWN

It's Place to Rear Children Says College Official

BOSTON.—Girls, if you're thinking about getting married, move to a small town.

That's the advice of Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons College.

"The small town is the place to rear children," says Dean Arnold. "The girl is safer in a small town.

"The protection of a community that always watches her kindly is about the girl in the small town.

"If a country girl is out after dark —

"Well, the neighbors know everyone's business, so who'll dare do wrong?"

NOT AIDING PROFITEER

The third grade was studying multiplication and some of the children were having trouble with the tables. One boy was having an especially hard time, so his folks were helping him at home. One night they were questioning him, and his sister said: "Birch, if you were to go down to the store to buy nine apples and the grocer told you they were seven cents apiece, what would you say?"

Birch answered immediately: "I'd say, 'Nothin' doin.' I won't pay it.'"

STOCK MARKET ACTIVE

Gains of One to Three Points Registered By Steel Group

NEW YORK—Speculative shares made continued improvement during Tuesday's trading. Advances of 1 to 3 points in Bethlehem, Crucible, Lackawanna, Republic and Vanadium. Bears were also forced to cover in the shorts, but the movement in United States Steel was extremely narrow. Bears were alsa forced to cover in Baldwin Locomotive, American International and General Asphalt, which gained 1 to 2½ points. The local utilities failed to extend an early advance and express shares, notably Wells-Fargo, were heavy. Rails, including coalers, were dull and inclined to ease. Call money was unchanged at 7 per cent.

Local tractions were the outstanding features at the irregular opening of the stock market. That group gained from ½ to 1½ points on Governor Miller's proposal to unify the city's transit system on an adequate fare basis. Changes elsewhere were unimportant, including moderate gains in several of the investment rails, shippings and motors. Oils repeated their recent uncertain course, the Mexican devision hardening while Royal Dutch and Houston were reactionary. Early quotations pointed to another active day in foreign exchange, the London demand rate rising to 380¾, a high record for the past six months.

WHEAT IN RALLY

Moderate Rally Follows Upon Early Weakness; Corn Prices Sag

CHICAGO, Ill.—Foreign selling had a bearish effect Tuesday on the wheat market. Talk was current that the British royal commission would be out of the market until March 4. Hope that buying orders from other countries would be placed Tuesday tended, however, to check declines. Opening prices which varied from ½c to 1½c lower with March $1.70 to ¼ and May $1.60 to ½ were followed by a moderate further setback and then something of a rally.

Subsequently with a lack of aggressive buying the market weakened still further. Prices closed unsettled, 3½ to 4½c net lower, with March $1.67 to ½ and May $1.57 to ¼.

Corn receded with wheat, notwithstanding that arrivals of corn showed a big falling off in quantity. After opening unchanged to ½c lower, including May at 68⅞ to 69c, the market underwent a general sag.

Hedging sales lessened in volume; but the market failed to respond. The close was nervous at ¼ to 1⅛c net decline with May 68¼ to ½c.

Oats were easier as a result of the weakness of other grain, starting unchanged to ⅛c higher, May 44⅝ to ¾c but soon turning down grade.

Provisions showed lack of support.

Top of the United States

An aerial view of the top of Mount Rainier, the 14,500-foot peak of Washington, was recently made. The aviator was forced to make an ascent of three miles to get the picture, and the photograph shows one of the now extinct volcano craters.—Merrill Herald.

1920 WAS GREATEST YEAR FOR CORN IN HISTORY OF NATION

More than Three Billion Bushels Raised; Average Yield Per Acre also Higher

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Nineteen hundred and twenty was the greatest corn year in the history of the country according to the records of the department of agriculture. Besides growing a record crop of 2,232,367,000 bushels, the farmers established a new record for average yield per acre with 30.9 bushels, the second time in history that the country's average yield went past 30 bushels.

The area planted to corn last year was 104,601,000 acres which was smaller than the area planted in eight other years heretofore and 1,400,000 acres smaller than the area which produced the previous record crop of 3,124,746,000 bushels in 1912. Last year's crop was the third to exceed 3,000,000,000 bushels.

Iowa, the country's greatest corn producing state, made an average of 46 bushels to the acre for the first time in its history. The highest average acre yield of any state was that of Vermont with 47 bushels. Maine in 1919 had the highest average acre yield with 60 bushels. In the ten years previous to that year the highest average acre yield has been made by one of the New England states. Connecticut had highest yield in six of the ten years, Massachusetts in two, New Hampshire in one, and Vermont and Massachusetts tying in one.

PAYMENT OF TAXES TWICE A YEAR TO BE ASKED OF ASSEMBLY

Plans is to Lighten Tax Burden by Dividing Up the Payments

MADISON, Wis.—Provision for semi-annual payment of taxes is to be urged upon the legislature again this session, according to Assemblyman James B. French of Superior, chairman of the committee on judiciary.

He has received a request to give support to a measure which would divide the time for paying taxes and, it is said, relieve the burden which now falls on the taxpayer once a year. The yearly payment was declared to work a hardship on the wage earner.

Little support can be expected for such a move, Assemblyman French said, because of the effect it would have on existing statutes and on the tax collecting machinery. It would upset much of the present law governing taxation, he said, and could not expect to receive the support of the committee on taxation nor the tax commission.

Similar proposals have been made in the past, but have always been defeated. It is declared by exponents of the plan that it would serve to lighten the burden on the taxpayer by dividing the cost.

"UP IN MABEL'S ROOM"

The exquisite, satin pajamas worn by beautiful Miss Alger in the second act of "Up in Mabel's Room," the famous New York farce which A. H. Woods will present at the La Crosse theater on Monday, January 31, have created something of a sensation since they were first seen. Gasps of feminine approval greet their appearance at every performance, and envious sighs are heard throughout the course of the act. Miss Alger has received many requests for permission to copy the pajamas, but this, of course, is not possible. They are as much a part of the production as the dialogue itself, and while it is not possible to copyright or patent them, they are carefully guarded, and are seen only for the briefest moment in all their detail and that is just before the actress kicks off her boudoir slippers and jumps into bed.

GIRL DRINKS POISON

CHICAGO, Ill.—Hazel Dewey Rice, 22, drank poison Sunday night just before her sweetheart, Louis J. Jacques, reached her side, and died while Jacques was rushing her to a hospital in his automobile. He had previously refused to meet her, and was warned by the girl he would never see her again, Jacques is quoted as saying. Jacques is the son of John F. Jacques, sugar broker. He was released by police on his promise to appear at the inquest.

The Sad Reason

HAD NO TROUBLE TO SECURE POSITION

I had no trouble in securing a good position as stenographer with the Wm. Frankfurth Hdwe. Co., of Milwaukee, shortly after leaving the "WBU". Later I had the good fortune to secure a position in my home town.

I can heartily recommend the "WBU" to anyone desiring a business education, for I know that my success is due to the thorough business training received there.

ANOTHER LETTER RECEIVED JAN. 7, 1921.

I wired you today over the signature of the superintendent in regard to a young man stenographer. The position is that of stenographer or secretary to the Division Superintendent, salary $139 per month.

I specified a single man because of the fact that the housing situation here is very acute on account of the rapid growth of the city, and also because the party in this position is required to travel over the division more or less with the superintendent in his private car. It is a position in which an ambitious young fellow can learn a whole lot about railroading.
